I mean, did you receive excerpts of contracts, did you see case law? What did you look at specifically from counsel to A. Primarily case law, restates on some of the law. Q. Did you review any construction contracts? A. Excerpts within the bodies of what I'll call legal reference materials that we reviewed in order to establish what was customary for these types of provisions. Q. Was that before or after you filed your testimony? A. It was before. Q. The language that you're proposing in the 7-1/2 percent cap, have you seen that language in any other interconnection agreement? A. I have not. Q. Are you proposing a similar type language in any of your pending or concluded arbitration proceedings in other states? 	3	A. As I recall, it is — let me use the term aggregate fees, charges, or other amounts paid or payable. Q. "Paid or payable", what does that mean to you? A. Either the amounts have been remitted or they are due. Q. Do you consider amounts that have yet to be billed to be due? A. No. Q. So on day 25, would it be your interpretation of the provision that you're referring to that — and presume with me that BellSouth has not issued a bill yet — would you believe that the total liability would be zero? A. Yes. Q. Now, what happens if on day one the claim

The language we proposed explicitly states that the term here of an amount equal to 7-1/2 percent of the entire term hereof, an amount equal to I'm sorry, the aggregate fees, charges, or other amounts pald or payable to such party for any and all services provided to the provided by such party pursuant to this agreement as of the day on which the daim arose. Q. What does "when the daim arose" mean to you? A. When the daim arose means to me the date that the incident, which the daim relates to, arose. Q. Presume for me that on day one something happens, a daim and you have a daim. Under your interpretation of this provision, what would BellSouth's total exposure be? A. Nothing. Q. Because that's the date the incident occurred. Q. And would — in that instance, what would BellSouth's total liability be under that provision? A. If no invoice was due, zero. MR. MEZA: Let's take a break. (RECESS.) BY MR. MEZA: Q. Ms. Johnson, do you know if KMC has a provision in its tariff that provides that it is not liable for the acts of any third party or service provider? A. KMC does. Q. Do you know if KMC has a provision in its tariff that provides that it is not making any warranties or representations, express or implied? A. KMC does.

So even if the action giving rise to the claim was the result of gross negligence or willful misconduct, your tariff says that your total exposure would be the total amount that's paid for the services? A. Correct. Q. Okay. Does KMC intend to remove or modify its limitation of liability language that currently exists in its tariffs or on its website? A. There are no plans to modify that language. Q. I'd like for you to look — if you flip Exhibit 5 over, you'll see BellSouth's proposed language for limitation of liability. And I'd like for you to read that and determine if you think that BellSouth's proposed language is at or near the standard in the industry, the telecom industry, for interconnection

Is it your understanding that KMC's tariff provisions relating to limitation of liability does not apply to incidents of gross negligence or willful misconduct? A. Not expressly. Q. What does that mean, "not expressly"? A. As I recall our tariff provisions, they don't expressly limit any liability in gross negligence and willful misconduct. Q. Let me show you what I'm going to mark as Exhibit 25. I cannot answer the question as it relates to generally, because I am only familiar with the tariffs that we purchase services from or the tariff that we provide directly. I have seen this language or similar language in tariffs. Q. Is it similar to your own language? A. BellSouth's language limits the credit to the actual cost of the service or function, whereas KMC's language limits the recovery to the amounts paid to KMC for services that give rise to the claim. Q. And would it also be fair to say that BellSouth BellSouth's language carves out gross negligence or willful misconduct and KMC's tariffed language does not? A. That is also safe to say. Q. What's your understanding of what indirect, consequential, or incidental damages are? A. I'd like to offer an example.	Page 62	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	 A. No. Q. And when you're done, I'd like for you to explain to me your interpretation of how 10.4.4 is intended to work. (PAUSE.) A. This provision acts to provide language that protects the consumer's rights. My understanding of this language is that it's proposed in order to confirm between the parties that we are not going to limit the rights of end users, as the term is used in this proposal, to recover direct damages if they are harmed as a result of either of our — either party to this agreement, being KMC or BellSouth's failure to provide agreement. But if it was a provision that said BellSouth will provide DS-1 and UNE loops and BellSouth did not provide the DS-1 UNE loop, that's a simple breach, and I would believe that the court would be competent to handle those issues. Q. Would you agree with me that in the instance when a court does refer matters to the state commission pursuant to the Doctrine of Primary Jurisdiction that that deferral could result in the delay of the resolution of the issue? A. It may not delay the resolution. It would be a bifurcated resolution of the issue. Q. And that's one of the things that our issues that the Joint Petitioners are concerned about in BellSouth's proposal, is that it results in the bifurcation of issues; would that be correct? A. In BellSouth's proposal, I actually think		2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	witness is looking at Exhibit 13. MR. MEZA: Yes. (PAUSE.) A. Okay. Q. Is it your understanding after reading that proposed language that it's BellSouth's position that the commission would determine whether the claim should be brought before it before it could be brought to a court of law? And then it's attached by a connecting facility assignment on the main distribution frame to your CLEC collocation space where it's mux-ed up on a DS-1 or DS-3 going out, wherever you want it to go. A. Okay. Q. All right. Is there any part that you need any further darification on? A. Yes. Q. Okay. A. This multiplexer exists in my collocation space, so my presumption by this representation is that the intent this is indicated back to the KMC owns this multiplexing system and KMC is providing the multiplexing. Q. No, that's not what it's intended to do. It is multiplexing provided by — that you're purchasing from BellSouth. A. Okay. But that's in my collocation space?	Page 110	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	 A. Is this transport or cross connect? Q. It's a CFA. There's a connecting facility assignment here. It's similar to a cross connect. A. So it's a cross connect? Q. Yes. A. See, it's my understanding that the loop, the cross connect is the — and I'm not an engineer by any stretch of anyone's imagination. Q. Sure. A. I envision the main distribution frame as a patch panel. I would envision the CFA or cross connects as literally what's physically connecting that facility to the next piece of equipment it needs to get to get into my collocation. Q. So you would consider that to be part of the loop? A. I would consider it to be part of the loop. Q. Do you know if there's a definition that the FCC said a loop as going from the NID to the main distribution point? A. Or to ask a different question, is the NID 	Page 112

It's aggregating all — you're asking BellSouth, aggregate all of my analog loops that I buy from you such that I can send them out on a high cap loop going out of my collocation space. Is that something you buy from BellSouth? A. KMC uses a lot of its own transport, so I don't — in some instances we would buy some transport from BellSouth and ask you to aggregate and mux it up, so, yes, we might buy that from BellSouth. Q. Now, the multiplexing that's occurring in the outside plant facility in the DLC, do you know if BellSouth charges you for that? A. This multiplexing is a part of the loop, correct? Q. That's right. Do you consider the multiplexing that's occurring after the main distribution frame to be part of the loop? 		1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	integrated in the main distribution frame? Q. The NID would be at the customer's premises. A. Oh, the NID — I'm thinking of the CFA. Q. Yeah. A. I'm sorry. You're speaking way back here. Q. Yeah. A. And I believe that the FCC's definition — let me see — looking for the order — Triennial Review Order. The FCC said, at it's most basic level, a local loop that serves the mass market consists of transmission medium, which almost always includes copper wires of various gauges. The loop may include additional components; for example, load colls, bridge taps, repeaters, multiplexing equipment, that are usually intended to facilitate the provision of narrowband voice service. And I'm reading from paragraph 214 of the Triennial Review. Q. So your answer would be — is what? A. My answer would be that the loop does include multiplexing. But the question	Page 113

And there is nothing that would prohibit just and reasonable in those cases from being a TELRIC-based pricing standard. Q. Are you aware of any instance where a 201 or 202 service or element that's priced pursuant to 201 or 202 has been found or priced consistent with TELRIC methodology? A. Not that I'm aware of, but I do believe that there is a case — there are some arbitrations pending where that very issue	111111122222	2345678900112345678901234	relates to its full authority? Could you please be more specific? Q. Yeah. Is it your understanding that a state commission's role in a 252 arbitration, as it relates to federal obligations, is to implement and resolve issues relating to 251? A. No. Q. Do you believe that a 252 that 252 provides a state commission with authority to resolve issues outside of 251? A. Look at our current arbitration. It includes issues that are outside of the Act, such as indemnification, so the commission certainly has the authority to hear the issues brought forward under arbitration. Q. Do you believe that if one party Can one party force another party to arbitrate a non-251 issue simply by raising it as an issue? A. I'm not sure that I understand.	38

Or notice. What do you want BellSouth to put in its notice? A. First and foremost, KMC would like that	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	appears to be reasonable. Do you know if BellSouth has agreed to that? A. I believe that, in concept, we agree that 30 days is reasonable. The Issue is what that 30 days says. I believe that the 30 days for us is a 30-day notice that says that BellSouth would like to conduct an audit in 30 days or KMC to BellSouth could say KMC would like to conduct an audit of BellSouth's services in 30 days. Now, whether or not that 30 days is acceptable is a different issue, and I think that's the issue that we have teed up in this arbitration. You know, my in-laws might call and say, Martha, we would love to visit you on Christmas. And I would love to see my in-laws, and I certainly am not avoiding them, but if Christmas is not good because I'm not home or my floors are being redone, it's not that I don't want to see them, I love them, but we need to talk about a date that's reasonable. Q. If KMC — BellSouth determines and the auditor determines that after review of the initial circuits identified that there needs to be a more robust audit, would KMC object to that audit going forward, that second audit? A. I'm not sure — When you say, would we object — Q. Would KMC oppose an auditor's decision to expand the scope of the initial audit? A. Are you asking would we comply with it or would we — when you say object, I'm not sure — Q. Okay. Would you refuse — Would you refuse for the audit to be expanded pursuant to an auditor's request that the scope of the audit be expanded? A. The reason I'm hesitating to answer your question is that it isn't specific, meaning that if BellSouth asks us to expand the scope of the audit, we would Page 180 need to go and evaluate, just as we did initially, the resources required, the timing. I wouldn't expect BellSouth to tell me that it needs to evaluate ten circuits, for me to produce the data and resources to assist BellSouth in auditing ten circuits, and to expect that that was going to take two days. And for BellSouth on the second day to say, we're going to expand the schedule of this audit, KMC.	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10	Q. Okay. A. It depends on the Q. Give me a range. A confidence level that you want to reach with regard to the result. It depends again Q. So there are instances where the auditor selects a strike that. Let's take your proposal and play it out. BellSouth You win on this issue. BellSouth notifies you of the individual circuits that it wants to audit, okay? In that instance, there isn't a sample being done because BellSouth is Page 1 limited to auditing only those audits only those circuits, whatever percentage that may be, of the universe in its audit. A. Yeah. Q. So And the auditor the independent auditor determines that after its review of these ten circuits that there needs to be an additional audit done of the entire universe.
9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19	going to take two days. And for BellSouth on the second day to say, we're going to expand the schedule of this audit, KMC. It's going to take 30 days and I'm going to audit a thousand circuits and for me to — and for BellSouth to expect me to say, okay, well, great, just stay around. Of course I'd have to have adequate time to evaluate the scope, timing, and resources necessary to accommodate your expanded request. Q. Who would determine, in your mind, whether	9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	be an additional audit done of the entire universe. What would be the standard to which KMC would not object to the auditor applying to determine whether an additional audit needs to be done? MR. CAMPEN: Object as to form. A. GAAP. The independent certified professional accountants are going to be conducting their audit according to the AICPA rules, the GAAP, so I'm not practiong as a CPA.
22 23	or not the audit should be expanded to include additional circuits. A. The independent auditor. Q. And what standard do you think should be used?	21 22 23 24 25	 Q. Sure. A. So whatever those rules are in 2004 would set the standards for whether or not that auditor should, in his independent assessment, move forward and expand the

So as far as KMC is concerned, is issue 63 still an issue in this arbitration? A. Yes. The reason that issue 63 continues to be an issue in the arbitration is, first and foremost, we're all Joint Petitioners. But the distinction between the request and this arbitration is — and the terms agreed in our settlement on the issue is that in this arbitration, the Joint Petitioners have asked that they have an opportunity to negotiate those services that they will pay for. And if I say it more dearly, the 		2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	we need an opportunity to be able to audit and dispute and raise disputes on those bills. So if you look at the arrangement that KMC came to with BellSouth, it provides for that. We actually have in court in ORP for the billing for primary bill provider and for ORP between BellSouth and KMC. And I believe that the Joint Petitioners' request is asking, not in the exact same words, but for those same basic, fundamental principles, the right to only have to pay when the law requires that they pay; the right to be able to audit and raise disputes in a timely manner; and, also, the right to not be bound by terms and conditions in settlement agreements that they weren't a party to. Do you believe that BellSouth is obligated to — under the Act to transit your traffic to another CLEC or another carrier? A. Well, I believe that that issue is not an issue in this arbitration because BellSouth has agreed, as it's done for the last eight years, to provide a tandem transit function. Q. So your answer to my question would be yes? A. Yes. Q. Do you believe that BellSouth has a 251 obligation to transit your traffic to another carrier?	Page 219	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	A. They purport to provide tandem transiting functions. Q. Which is the same function BellSouth is providing to KMC? A. Correct. Q. Do you know what Neutral Tandem charges? A. I don't know for sure, but my recollection is that it's free. Q. So what do you pay for or how does Neutral Tandem make money? A. I don't recall. Q. Why do you believe it's free? And what are you referring is free? A. That there's no tandem intermediary charge, that they may charge a basic origination or termination charge.
20	A. Yes, and I know BellSouth may dispute that. That is an issue, again, before the		19 20	that's similar to the TIC. They've given

So as soon as CLECs participate fully in the docket, it is. Is it possible for KMC to avoid connecting — or using BellSouth's transit function by directly connecting with another carrier? Possible, but not practical. KMC has, in fact, done that though in some circumstances? Where practical. Do you know if other carners or companies provide this transiting function? Do I know of any carrier specifically? Yep. Non-ILEC carrier? Yes. I've heard of a company called Neutral Tandem Services. Does KMC use that company? No.		23	A. One of our salespeople said there's a company called Neutral Tandem Services, we should look into the opportunities that they describe. Q. As an alternative to using BellSouth's transit functions? A. No, as a business opportunity for KMC. Q. To buy? A. No, to provide the service ourselves. Q. Oh. Let's talk about supplemental issues. Do you agree with me there may be certain provisions in the FCC's final rules that are clear and unambiguous? A. There might be. Q. For instance, ILECs have no obligation to provide competitive LECs with unbundled access to mass market local circuit switching, do you consider that sentence to be clear and unambiguous? MR. So long as they reflect the transition regime set forth below, and provided that they continue to comply with the interim approach set forth. Q. And the FCC concludes by stating that, if you do this, then whatever alterations are approved or deemed approved by the relevant state commissions may take effect quickly if the final rules, in fact, to decline unbundling obligations for switching enterprise market loops and dedicated transport. Do you agree with that? A. I — Let me restate what I think you said. Q. Okay. A. And then if you agree with my restatement — Q. Okay. A. — I'll confirm I agree with your statement. What I think you said is that	Page 231	11 22 3 4 5 6 77 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	negotiate with another carrier a change to our agreement, we submit those changes to the commission for approval as an amendment to our interconnection agreement. So the commission would approve or by operation of law that would be deemed approved in some cases if the commission does not approve them within the statutory time frame. Therefore, when the commission issued final rules consistent with the terms of those agreements, they would be in effect. It would All of the negotiations to implement those terms into the contracts,
20 21 22 23 24 25	parties go ahead and negotiate the change in law provision that presume the absence of certain unbundling obligations and then there is later a finding that certain — that those unbundling obligations, in fact, do not exist, then when we issue those final rules that, in fact, say that those unbundling obligations do not exist, that will — the fact that the carriers had already negotiated those terms presuming the absence of unbundling will allow for speedy implementation. Q. So you're interpreting change of law — initiating change of law proceedings to encompass negotiations? A. In fact, yes, my agreement provides for negotiation in change in law. Q. And you would also agree with me that in the last sentence the FCC states that alterations can be approved or deemed approved by relevant state commissions? A. Just to be clear, my read on the sentence that says, thus, whatever alterations are approved are deemed to be approved by the relevant state commissions and may take		25 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	rates are supported by the paragraph was to say, you guys can Page 234 get a jump start on the process by going ahead and negotiating any change in law obligations that you have. Go ahead, as you would normally do, submit those amendments to the commission. The commissions can approve them and, therefore, when I issue final unbundling — or final rules, if the rules indeed say there's no obligation to unbundle mass market switching and your contract had so been amended, then your contract's ready to go. You can proceed and operate in an expeditious manner. Q. Would you agree with me that change of law proceedings also involve dispute resolution? A. They do. Q. Is there any prohibition from the final rules going to effect upon their issuance and the parties still negotiating after their effectiveness? A. No. Q. Is it your position that, while the parties are negotiating the final rules, those rules would not be applicable to

1 KMC? 2 A. It depends on the terms of your individual contract. Some contracts provide that change in law is effective immediately. 5 Some contracts provide that change in law is effective upon amendment to the agreement. Some contracts provide that change in law is effective after a reasonable negotiation period. And if no agreement is reached, maybe like 60 to 90 days, then it goes to dispute resolution. 12 But either way, the resolution is effective as of the 90-day period. So it depends on the contract. I believe in this context, we've agreed that there would not be an impact because as a result of our abeyance is — we would continue to negotiate implementation of the final rules. 20 Q. And — 21 A. Prospectively. 22 Q. Do you believe that agreement encompassed the final rules? 24 A. I don't recall specifically and I don't have the actual abeyance or any	Page 2: 1 Q. Does 2 A. But I don't recall specifically. 3 Q. Did BellSouth send you an Interim Rules 4 Order amendment? 5 A. I don't recall. 6 Q. Is it your opinion there was an agreement 7 between the parties not to invoke change 8 of law for the TRO? 9 A. When you say "the TRO", to me the TRO is 10 the order that was issued, the USTA II 11 decision and then the final then the 12 remand. 13 Q. Okay. 14 A. So 15 Q. That's not my same understanding. 16 A. That, to me, is the TRO. 17 Q. The August 2003 order. 18 A. I don't know that our agreement was 19 limited to the August 2003 order. 20 Q. I'm asking, do you know when that order 21 came out if the parties had an agreement 22 not to invoke change of law to implement 23 that decision? 24 A. I believe, in fact, that we specifically 18 negotiated to integrate the August 2003
retracted it, because we were negotating and they knew that we had a special agreement or a specific agreement that provided otherwise. Page 236 correspondence between John Heitmann and Rona Reynolds or yourself on that matter in front of me. Q. Do you believe that you can add arbitration issues — new arbitration issues after submitting the issues to the commission in a petition? A. I think we did, in fact, in this instance. We presented supplemental issues. Q. Absent a request for relief to do that, do you think that is allowable? A. Absent a request and permission to do so, I don't think it should be allowable. Q. Do you know if BellSouth sent you a TRO change of law letter? A. I believe that BellSouth sent it and retracted it, because we were negotating and they knew that we had a special agreement or a specific agreement that provided otherwise. Q. For the TRO? A. For the TRO. Q. What about the vacatur amendment?	TRO, and then the USTA II decision came out, and that's when things got confusing. Q. Are the parties still negotiating today? A. We are. Q. Do you believe that any provisions of the August 23, 2003, TRO is self-effectuating? A. I believe that there are none that are self-effectuating. But I would say with regard to routine network modifications, the commission made it a point to note that — you know, that their rules hadn't changed. They were just confirming, again, that they believed this obligation always existed. So it's not — in that instance, it wasn't self-effectuating. They were just affirming that this was a rule all along. So I believe that the order itself requires negotiation as a change in law and integration into agreements. Q. Do you think any provision of the FCC final rules are self — or could be self-effectuating? MR. CAMPEN: Objection to the form of the question.

I believe that the FCC had several motives in issuing the Intenim Rules, and I'm not sure that I could say what that was. Q. Do you know if they used the phrase 12-month plan in their description of what's required or what they're ordering in the Interim Rules Order? A. Yeah, I believe that they did set forth what they called a 12-month plan. Q. Do you know how long the interim period was ordered to be? A. So what happens presuming no rules on March 12th, 2005, what happens, in your opinion, after the expiration of the interim period? A. After the expiration of the Interim period, presuming no final rules from the FCC, I would envision that BellSouth first of all, what I would envision is that CLECs would seek clarification as to whether loops are, in fact, vacated. There's a fundamental disagreement as to the scope of the vacatur. So that would be the first thing that would happen. And to the extent irrespective 	262

Yeah, for dedicated transport, why do you think that the FCC intended to freeze KMC elements of the definition of dedicated transport that were not vacated by USTA II? A. Again, I believe the FCC's intent was to freeze our businesses as they were. Q. Uh-huh. A. So that their objective was to ensure that we were no better or no worse off than we were the day before. So as an example, the FCC did not say you know, they didn't say, now, go commingle all those facilities, CLECs. You've got the right to commingle in the Triennial Review Order. Now, you've got the night to commingle June 16th. I think their intent was to try to keep everybody on a level playing field to give themselves time to sort through the USTA II decision and to prepare final rules. Those amounts have been billed and either paid or not paid, but they're known amounts, because they've been billed. When you're talking about unknown amounts, amounts that I would not have even thought to provide an allowance for, because there's just there's much greater uncertainty. They're unknown. So in order to have the greatest amount of certainty, it's good to try to limit the unknown. In this case, backbilling amounts that are unknown should be limited in some way. Q. Does KMC currently take any allowance or reserve for potential backbilling? A. Quite let's see. We do not. We do not. Q. So if you don't take any allowance for	e 285

I need to backbill it in order to adjust and properly bill for it. Q. Can you tell me why the Joint Petitioners draw a distinction between overbilling or billing dispute and backbilling? A. When you say "distinction", which specific distinctions? Q. BellSouth has proposed a two-year limitation on a backbilling, which I understand is an unacceptable offer, if you will, although that is the agreed-upon time frame for raising a billing dispute. Tell me why there shouldn't be the same time frame for raising a billing dispute and a party's ability to backbill? A. We didn't understand in the context of the negotiations that BellSouth wanted to the the two time frames. But as you noted, we did agree to the two-year time frame for the disputes. The fundamental reason to distinguish and to differentiate the time	-	A. It's That was my point exactly. For backbilling, it's so speculative, we we would expect that each carrier had a fundamental right, and you would want, because my investors want me to get my revenue accurate on my books, to be diligent in my billing. And I hope that we bill in order to make sure that revenue and costs line up diligently. So I have an incentive as the billing party to be	286

But some customers, I assume — you tell me if I'm wrong — sign KMC's master service agreement and sign it without making any changes to section 7.3 here; correct? A. I cannot say that there have been customers who have. Q. You can't say — A. Like I said, I have never seen an agreement where a customer did not alter that provision, but I don't know the frequency across all agreements. So I can't say that it's never been changed. My statistical sample would say, it's always changed because every contract I've ever seen, it has been. Q. Any right to terminate, do you consider such a right to be maximum valian? A. I do indeed. Q. So you consider your own company's tariffs and contracts to be maximum valian? A. In that regard. That's why, again, our contract terms are subject to negotiation. If the customer had If a customer was not satisfied that the provisions of our tariff provided service in a manner in which they'd like to pay for those services, they're free to contract with us via the contract process. They're free to negotiate provisions. And I'm sure if that was a provision that of particular importance to them, we would negotiate with them. Q. Tell me why KMC is opposed to posting a payment bond if there is a dispute over a deposit amount. A. Because, from a financial perspective, the	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	Q. And in this little hypothetical, would KMC send the bond Issuer, assuming it was Mr. Campen, $100 to issue a hundred dollar bond? A. No. Q. It would be something less than $100? A. I believe something less, but I — believe me, the bond issuer wants to make sure that I really am putting my finger on that $100. Q. I've asked you several questions about KMC tariffs as well as this master contract that was produced in discovery. Does KMC have any plans to modify or change its tariff or its master contract terms? A. KMC's master contract has, in fact, been modified and Q. When? A. I don't remember the exact date. Q. Irrespective of the tariffs, is there any plans to — A. No. Q. No?

It's almost as if? A. Right. It's just like involcing. We Under our terms of our agreement today for every other service, we dispute and withhold. Why would I have a different requirement for the deposit provisions? I would dispute and withhold. And should there be a finding that a deposit is payable, I would pay it, just as I do other disputes under the agreement. Q. Does a payment bond — start over. Would a payment bond in the amount of $100 cost KMC the same as writing a check for $100? A. Either way I've got to allocate capital or dollars to cover that amount. Q. What do you mean when you say "allocate"? A. When I present a payment bond, the bond issuer wants to be sure that I've got the money there, so you're tying up financial resources of KMC's,	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	Q. Okay. And the master service agreement that's been produced is — the draft says 1/25/2002. Are you saying that are — there's a more current version? A. We actually just undertook a project to reconstruct all of our customer agreements, so we have a new master services agreement and a new — we have new service attachments, a complete new contract. Q. Have they been provided to your counsel? A. I don't know that they were requested. Q. They were requested, yes. Do you think that — well, would it be responsive to — through discovery request which produced this particular contract which says, produce all contracts that contain any limitation of liability clause? A. Yeah, but this is from June 2004. Q. Understood. I mean — well, let me just ask you straight up. Do you have any problem providing to your attorneys produced in discovery the most recent version of the KMC master service agreement?

THE WITNESS: Do we have any problem producing that? MR. CAMPEN: No. Q. So that's a yes? A. Yes. I'm hesitating simply because I don't want to reopen discovery. MR. CAMPEN. Objection as to form. A. No. 3

Q. Now, tell me why is it that the party, which believes there has been some 5 unauthorized access to CSR information, is 6 required to assert a dispute resolution provision under the contract? 8

A. To assure that the handle -- or the situation is handled correctly and that the offending party is afforded all the information, all the details associated with the specific incident so that it can be investigated and that it's accomplished through a common means already set in place.

16 Q. And when you say "offending party", which 17 party are you referring to?

18 A. The party who - for example, BellSouth 19 came to KMC. KMC would then be the 20 offending party in trying to get the CSR 21 information or with the CSR violation.

A. Cincinnati Bell, SBC. I don't believe that we have any interconnection agreements with Verizon, but I'm not certain about the midwest.

Q. Do you have any -- oh, I'm sorry.

A. NuVox through NewSouth, at this point in time still in the name of NewSouth, does have an interconnection agreement with Verizon. I think that's it.

Q. Do you have any responsibility for the negotiation or implementation of those agreements that are not involving BellSouth?

A. Only in the event that the person who is responsible for those is out and I have to take up if he's on vacation, but not on a day-to-day basis, no.

Q. Do you know if there's a joint defense agreement between the various companies participating in this arbitration?

A. I believe that there is.

O. Do you know when it was executed?

A. Around the time that these companies -- and at the time I believe it was five companies. It seems there were two Xspedius operating companies at the time. I'm not sure what their names were. KMC, NewSouth, companies to NuVox?

A. Not necessarily predecessor companies. State Communications was incorporated in October 3 of 1997. Began providing service, I believe, in Kentucky in May of 1998. In the first part of 1998, we were obtaining our local and long distance certifications in the nine-state BellSouth region, along with some other states. The company's initial business plan anticipated 10 providing total service resale to residential customers and small businesses. We marketed our 11 12 services in -- it staggered through states, starting with Kentucky. I can't recall the 13 14 specific order of the states as we began to 15 market our services in the BellSouth region. 16 But we would sign up a customer, do a change as-is order, and then begin providing service to 17 18 as-is order, and then begin providing service to the customer through a resale.

Sometime in early -- no, I'm sorry, late 1999, we began looking at deploying our own facilities using Nortel switches in anticipation of using the Nortel Passport product to provide voice and DSL services to small businesses and residential customers. We began that network deployment, I believe, in second quarter of the

What type of data services does NuVox provide? 7 8 A. High speed Internet via an Integrated T-1. 9 Q. What is your understanding of what an 10 integrated T-1 is? 11 A. An integrated T-1 service is a service 12 carried over a high capacity DS-1 loop. T-1 is 13 14 simply a generic term for 24 lines that may or may not be allocated to voice and/or data 15 traffic. 16 17 Q. Does NewSouth purchase the T-1 out of 18 BellSouth's tariff or pursuant to the interconnection agreement? 19 20 A. Pursuant to the interconnection 21 agreement. 22 Q. Has NuVox ever purchased a T-1 out of 23 the tariff? A. At one time we purchased special 24 25 access circuits from BellSouth because there was

A We're interested in selling any 12 service that will allow us to make the 13 appropriate margins. If that means -- if -- we 14 run a business case that shows we can make money 15 on the voice side without providing the data and 16 having some third party, be it BellSouth via its 17 FastAccess service or Earthlink via its --18 whatever the name of that service is -- that would be something that we would consider doing. 20 At this point in time, our focus is to sell both the voice and the data to customers that we're 21

Q. Does NuVox attempt to obtain Xspedius' 17 or KMC's customers?

A. I can't speak for the sales 19 department, but if a salesperson were to go out 20 and offer a proposal to a customer and you don't 21 know who that potential customer is receiving 22 services from, I'm certain that from time to 23 time we offer proposals to KMC customers, 24 Xspedius customers, ITC DeltaCom customers. than likely it's a BellSouth customers.

Q. Do you feel that competition among CLECs is growing versus competition between CLECs and BellSouth for business customers?

A. It's growing year to year, but I think that the volume of competition -- or the competition among -- or between CLECs as opposed to between all parties, including BellSouth, just between the CLECs is still minimal on a 10 day-to-day basis. It's a big sea. Most of the 11 sea is filled with BellSouth customers. You're 12_ more -- more likely than not, you're going to run into a BellSouth customer before you run into a KMC customer with a proposal.

Q. Is NuVox arbitrating or negotiating an 16 Interconnection agreement with another RBOC?

A. I can't speak with a lot of specifics 18 regarding what's going on in Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma right now. There are proceedings out there. I'm not sure if they're with regard to a generic agreement proposal or if they're NuVox specific.

Q. What was the most recent arbitration agreement that NuVox has entered into with another RBOC?

the ultimate user of telecommunications services. And the Petitioners want to define end user as a customer of the party.

Q. What is your concern with BellSouth's language?

A. That's a major issue because oftentimes we will sell a customer that is an office suite or apartment complex. The party that is -- signs the contract is not necessarily the ultimate user of the telecommunications services. The definition that BellSouth proposes, in my mind, would limit us to MDU 12 arrangements, apartment complex arrangements, 13 office suite arrangements, a good segment of the customer base that we would like to provide services to.

Q. If that concern was alleviated or addressed, would this issue -- could this issue he resolved?

20 A. The BellSouth definition is too restrictive. I don't know of any ways right now 21 to resolve this issue without going to the Joint 22 Petitioner definition, but I also recognize 23 24 there are a lot of different ways to skin a cat. Maybe there are some other magic words we could 25

use. Right now the best alternative, as I see it, is a party of a -- a customer of a party is the definition of an end user.

O Do you have a general disagreement with the concept that an end user should be the ultimate user of the telecommunication service?

A. I really don't understand.

Q. Okay. Let's back away from this dispute in the context that it has arisen. Do you believe that an end user generally should be defined as the ultimate user of the telecommunication service?

MR. CAMPEN: Objection to the form.

A. I believe with regard to this interconnection agreement and our use of -through the purchase from BellSouth of certain facilities and services that we should be able to purchase those facilities and services from BellSouth, incorporate them into our network, and provide services to our customers in a lawful manner.

Q. Okav.

A. I don't know if those customers, for instance, the office suite or the apartment complex that is a party to the contract with us

A. I don't believe that we have completely arbitrated any of our agreements. I think we've opted into agreements in the past I can't speak for the midwest. I can only really speak for BellSouth.

(INTERRUPTION.)

THE WITNESS: Hold on one second. Let me cut this off. Sorry about that.

Q. Any time you need a break, just let me know.

A. Okay. With regard to NuVox, we negotiated an agreement in year 2000. It's effective as of June 30, 2000. On the eve of arbitration, we settled the issues out.

Q. Do you have any understanding as to whether the combined entity has entered into a arbitration, I mean, excuse me, interconnection agreement outside of BellSouth's region within the past year?

A. I'm not sure just because I'm not as familiar with the midwest operations.

Q. Issue 4 deals with definition of an end user. What is your understanding of the dispute between the party?

A. BellSouth wants to define end user as is the ultimate end user of those services. It 1 may, in fact, be a tenant of the apartment 2 3 complex. I don't want to be precluded from selling services to an apartment complex based on a restrictive definition and interconnection Q. Is it the Joint Petitioners' 7 8 contention to comply with the law regarding what services it purchases from BellSouth and then 9 resells or provides to another entity? 10 11 A. Repeat that, please. 12 Q. Sure. Let me ask it a different way. 13 Is it your understanding that there are certain services that a CLEC can purchase from BellSouth 14 15 and then resell as their own? 16 A. I would imagine that NuVox could 17 purchase high capacity loops from BellSouth. 18 And if we were able to convince some third party 19 to purchase those loops from us and take the

A. There may be some. I'm not -- I don't 1 2 know any specifics. My position is and our 3 company's position is that the BellSouth proposed definition of end user as the ultimate 5 user of telecommunications services is too restrictive and most likely more restrictive 6 7 than any law that would prohibit to whom we could sell our services. 8

- Q. Do you call your customers customers or end users?

A. It's not likely to happen.

would violate the law.

Q. Is it fair to say that your main objection to the language is that you believe it's too restrictive in that it limits your ability to sell services to an apartment complex owner or a subdivision developer?

MR. CAMPEN. Objection to form.

- A. I believe that it is too restrictive in that it attempts to limit the persons to whom NuVox can sell its services in compliance with the law that -- the applicable law as included in the general terms and conditions.
- Q. What is your understanding of the law as to limitations regarding who can be a NuVox customer?
 - I really don't understand.
- Q. Okay. I understood your response to me to mean that you don't want to have any restrictions on your ability to sell services to your customers that's compliant with the law?
 - A. Right, Right.
- 24 Q. Are there restrictions with the law as 25 to who can be your customer?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. Other than the apartment complex situation, is there any other scenario that you can imagine where BellSouth's definition may be too restrictive?

A. Over the course of these negotiations, we've talked about Internet service providers. I'm not sure if any dispensation has been made for Internet service providers. I think that it has. But the way that the technology -- there 10 could be technological changes that allow for different ways to use circuits that we may 12 purchase from BellSouth pursuant to this 13 agreement that might be restricted if we were to 14 15 use this ultimate end user language. That would 16 be completely within the bounds of this 17 agreement and appropriate.

Q. Can you give me an example?

A. I can't. I'm saying I don't want to tie my hands in one of the first definitions in the general terms and conditions to providing services in an appropriate fashion and in compliance with this agreement.

Q. So would it be fair to sum up your reason as far as the ISP issue, the apartment

Q. Okay. Do you believe that provisions that are one sided are inappropriate?

A. Not if they're negotiated for and are traded off for other concessions, not necessarily.

Q. Absent that situation, do you believe they're appropriate?

A. They can be, yes, but I don't know how to answer this question in a vacuum.

O. Well, do you believe that provisions that put all the risk and liability on one party is inappropriate?

A. In terms of an agreement between a 18 19 purchaser of services and a service provider, 20 language interposed into a tariff?

MR. CAMPEN: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I can't recall

O. Do you know if that's happened to NuVox?

A. I don't know if that's happened to NuVox.

MR. MEZA: And I apologize, Henry, I 13 don't have another copy of that for you. It's 14 Exhibit A to your -- first page of Exhibit A to 15 your Direct -- Direct to North Carolina. 16

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Focus your attention on the language 18 relating to limitation of liability. 19 20

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Who drafted this language?

21 A. When we began this process and 22 received BellSouth's template interconnection 23 agreement, that basically shifted all of the 24 risk and all of the downside to the CLEC from Page 42 BellSouth despite the fact that the CLECs would be purchasing services under the agreement. We discussed some alternatives about how to make this more equitable to the parties in terms of liability limitations, indemnification, and 5 other issues. We discussed many different proposals. This is a modification from original 7 8 proposals that we provided to BellSouth. The 9 original language that this is an outgrowth of was drafted, I believe, by me and by 10 John Heitmann. 11 Q. The 7 and a half percent concept? 12 A. Not the 7 and a half percent concept. 13 I wanted, I'm sure, a higher percentage than 14 15 that originally. 16

Q. What type of agreements did you base this on?

18 A. I based it on software agreements where NuVox purchases software, both development 19 services and turnkey software, indemnification 20 21 provisions out of those agreements 22 Indemnification -- I'm sorry, liability provisions out of other vendor agreements where we purchase these services for a fee over the

from the provisions in these interconnection 2 agreements and in turn -- we are -- in those 3 instances, we're providing a service to a customer and we would like to maintain the 4 5 flexibility to offer our customer some 6 variations in our contract terms. Our contract terms can differ from ones in our tariff. And we do differ contract terms with our customers 8 9 from time to time.

Q. I appreciate your response, but it didn't answer my question.

Do you have a like provision, an identical provision, as to what you see in Exhibit 5?

A. I don't believe we have an identical provision like this in our tariff, no.

Q. Do you have any type of provision in your tariffs that equate the limitation of liability to the amount billed up to the date the claim arose?

A. We have a provision in our tariff that provides for credits, and I believe that if a customer -- and this may come out of our form contract -- if a customer terminates service with us for service failures during the first course of some term from other vendors. There are also liability provisions in certain lease agreements where we are not only the sublandlord but that we are also the tenant. And those are just to name a few of the commercial agreements that include more equitable liability provisions.

Q. Did you draft that provision that you see there?

A. The provision that I see here is -was modified from an original provision that John Heitmann and I worked on over two years ago. It was modified in an attempt to get this issue resolved. Whether I actually made the changes to the red line agreement, I don't know. But we have discussed this provision for over two years now, so I'm certain that some of the things that I discussed with John and with Xspedius and with KMC are in this provision.

Q. Have you seen a like provision in any interconnection agreement?

A. I can't say that I have 180 days, we will also pay to have that customer switched over to a service provider, a reasonable cost associated with that So in terms of providing some additional financial, I guess, result for the customer, yes.

Q. It's your testimony that your tariff regarding the return of monies received if the contract is terminated in 180 days is identical to this?

A. No, that's not my testimony.

Q. Do you have a like provision in a NuVox customer contract?

A. We amend contract provisions from time to time. That often has to do with the size of the customer, the number of lines that we're going to get, the gross margins that we'll receive. We will modify contract terms where warranted to win a customer.

Q. Do you have a contract that incorporates a limitation of liability clause that is similar to what exists in Exhibit 5?

A We have contract clauses that provide customers with different liability provisions than are in our tariff. How those liability provisions in custom customer contracts relate

A. I can't explain that.

Q. Okay. You would agree with me that those documents that were produced are nonresponsive?

A. They're not NuVox -- they're NuVox documents, but they're not related to request for production of 16.

Q. Does NuVox have documents that is responsive to 16?

A. We have our tariffs that are on file with the respective state public service commissions. We have form customer service agreements. And we have, again, from time to time modified customer service agreements that are modified for specific customers.

Q. Does NuVox still have those documents in its possession?

A. Most likely, yes. I mean, I would 21 expect so. Tariffs, of course, are on file with 22 the commissions. 23

Likewise, if two years into this agreement the 8 claim arises, 7.5 percent of the aggregate amount, if the plaintiff were given some sort of award, 7.5 percent of the aggregate amount paid 10 by NuVox under this agreement would be available 11 12 to compensate that plan. 13 Q. The language uses the phrase paid or 14 payable. Seven and a half percent of the 15 aggregate fees charged or other amounts paid or payable. Do you see that? 16 17 A. What line are you looking at? 18 Q. Look at this. A. Oh, I see. I see. 19 20 Q. It's in bold. 21 A. I got it. 22 Q. What does that mean, paid or payable?

paid by NuVox to BellSouth, which is zero, so limitation would be zero. There would be no liability potential or exposure for BellSouth on day one of this agreement.

Q. And if it happens on the last day, it would be 7 and a half percent of approximately 3 and a half million?

A. Say this is -- how many months is this agreement going to be for, 30 months?

Q. Three and a half years.A. Three and a half years. I thought it was two and a half?

Q. I don't know. Let's presume it's three.

A. Three. Okay. Let's use round figures and say 40 million bucks. Seven and a half percent of that would be $3.75 million for -after earning 40 million.

O. I would argue with after earning, but hopefully collecting. What happens if the Joint Petitioner asserts that throughout the term of the contract BellSouth has failed to provide something under the contract and this failure started on the first day and continued to the last day?

BellSouth.

3 O. And then further on, it's 7 and a half percent as of the day the claim arose. Do you 5 see that?

A. Yes. I was under the impression that we had modified our position to the day -- to the day. Yes, that's right. The day the claim arose, we started somewhere else That's right

Q. What is your interpretation of when the day the claim arose?

tomorrow, tomorrow would be the day the claim arose. If I get -- I'm trying to think of some -- the day the potential plaintiff knew or had good reason to know that they may have a claim against BellSouth, that's the day the

A. If I get run over by a BellSouth truck

18 19 If the claim arose on day one, then 20 what would be the limitation of liability?

A. There wouldn't be any on BellSouth. 21 22 NuVox would not have paid any fees to BellSouth 23 on day one of this agreement.

Q. So there would be no limitation?

A. It would be limited by the amounts

A. The claim would have arose prior to the last day, so the damages would be limited.

O. To what? Is it zero?

A. Could be zero.

Q. So under that interpretation, my understanding of your interpretation of the agreement, if you find on the last day of the contract that we've been doing something improperly since day one, your interpretation of this provision is that BellSouth would have no liability?

A. I'm not thinking of this in terms of NuVox and BellSouth. I'm thinking of this in terms of NuVox end users, customers.

O. I'm not sure I understand your response. I mean, the question is that this act, this harm --

A. The act or harm --

O. -- the claim occurred on day one and continued until the last day. You didn't do anything about it until the last day. What would BellSouth's limitation of liability be?

A. I'm trying to think of a claim that would go on for that long, it would be covered by this agreement. I think in terms of -- for

- example, BellSouth knows that the manager of the
- Greenville switch site central office is
- mismanaging that facility. The facility has
- problems that take down all of our Greenville
- customers. That happens and BellSouth can't get
- this fixed for two days, let's say. And all of
- our Greenville customers make a claim against
- 8 NuVox related to a negligence on the part of
- q BellSouth. Any liability of BellSouth under
- that set of circumstances would be related to --10
- 11 would be subject to the amount that NuVox had
- 12 paid in aggregate up to the day that claim
- 13 arose. I don't really know how a situation like
- 14 that applies to what -- the type of question you 15 nust asked.
- 16 Q. Well, I'll see if I can try to make it 17 more clear. But presume for me, that regardless
- 18 of whether it's likely or not, there is a situation whereby you believe BellSouth has done 19
- 20 something to harm NuVox starting on day one,
- 21 continued to the last day of the contract. You
- 22 raise it on the last day. What day would the
- 23 claim arose?
- 24 A. The day the claim arose would be the 25 day that NuVox realized it potentially had a

- 58
- no valid reason to deny access? So it would arise on the day that you had reason to know that you had a claim.
 - Q. So you're adding language to this provision, aren't you?
 - A. No.
 - Q. Does it say the day the claim arose or the date that --
 - A. The day the claim arose.
- 10 Q. And you're interpreting that to mean 11 something other than the actual day the claim arose? You are now impugning knowledge to when 12 13 NuVox determines when the claim arose?
- 14 A. I'm not impugning knowledge to it. In my example, if BellSouth -- if I get a call 15 today from Jim Ackerhome that says, Bo, you have 16 17 to do something, BellSouth has stopped providing us access to provisioning services. I would
- 18 19 say, Jim, that's great. I'm sitting here with
- 20 Robert Culpepper and Jim Meza They're going to 21 have those turned back on. If you looked at me
- 22 and told me, we're not going to do that and we
- 23 went through the dispute regulation procedure,
- my claim would arise when it became apparent 24 25 that BellSouth is not going to honor the
- Page 59 1

- 1 claim against BellSouth.
- Q So under that scenario, your 2 interpretation of the day of the claim arose would be the last day?
- 5 A Would be -- if on the second day -if -- let's say on the tenth day BellSouth stops 6
- allowing NuVox access to provisioning services for no reason. The claim would arise on the
- tenth day, the day NuVox realized there's a 10 problem.
- 11 Q. So what you're really saying --
- 12 Actually -- let me take that back.
- Because denied provisioning services on day ten 13
- 14 oftentimes -- or in the past, we've had
- 15 experience where BellSouth may stop providing
- 16 access to provisioning services but it's because
- 17 of an error. That gets fixed quickly. I'm
- 18 talking in a day. BellSouth stopped providing
- access to provisioning services. NuVox brought 19
- 20 this to the attention of BellSouth. BellSouth
- 21 continued refusing to provide provisioning 22
- services. The claim would arise sometime between the tenth day -- some reasonable amount 23
- of time. Is that 30 days for BellSouth to turn 24
- 25 back on those provisioning services if they have

- agreement.
- Q. I understand your position, but you keep on changing my hypothetical. And as a lawyer, I know that is your nature. So I ask - you to stick to my hypothetical. Okay. And I do appreciate your response.
- A. Give me an example of something that could be happening on day one that continues to the final day.
 - Q. Overbilling.
 - A. A single overbill?
- Q. An overbilling instance or some type of billing problem that you don't realize
- 14 until --
 - A. Well, each overbilling instance --
- 16 each -- an overbilling, we would have to dispute
- within a certain period of time according to our 17
- 18 current agreement with specificity within, I
- 19 believe, 30 days. So if there's an overbilling
- situation with an invoice, the day that claim 20
- arose was when the invoice was issued by 21
- BellSouth and we have 30 days to dispute that 22
- 23 bill, so the claim is related to that bill, that
- 24 single bill. So I don't see that as --

As far as I know, BellSouth still provides long distance and that is part of the criteria it has to meet, so it has a choice. It can decide not to enter into interconnection agreements and give up its long distance Q. Is it your testimony that BellSouth Telecommunications, Inc., provides long

A. Not that I'm aware of it.

Q. For those customers where you have conceded limitation of liability language, has BellSouth in some form or fashion done something to injure or harm the customer?

A No, not that I'm aware of today.

Q. Do you have any business plans to remove limitation of liability language from your tariffs or contracts?

A. No, but we do want the flexibility 17 when contracting with customers that if that is the concession that wins the business and it is 18 19 a commercially reasonable decision on our part 20 to provide some sort of dispensation off of the 21 standard contractual language with regard to 22 liability limitations.

23 Q. You would agree with me that you have a choice as to whether or not you want to enter into a contract with a customer, correct?

A. I don't know what BellSouth's subsidiary or affiliate provides long distance. I know that BellSouth's annual report appeared 5 to receive a boost in revenues after that 271 approval was awarded.

Q. Under your interpretation of 251, does BellSouth have an option of whether to enter into an interconnection agreement with a CLEC?

10 A. My interpretation of 251 is that BellSouth contracts to provide UNEs at TELRIC 11 12 prices to qualified CLECs. How that plays into this issue, I don't know. 13 14

Q. Well, can BellSouth say, I'm not entering into a contract with you, NuVox, under under Section 251?

A. I don't believe so.

18 Q. Is it your understanding, as it 19 relates to Issue 5, that BellSouth's position is 20 that you have to incorporate its limitation of liability language into the agreement? 21

22 A. Not necessarily. My understanding of 23 Issue 5, and I may need to look at my testimony 24 to make sure we're talking about right issue, is that if there is liability to BellSouth that

Under no circumstances shall a party be responsible or liable for indirect, incidental, or inconsequential damages provided that neither of the foregoing nor any other provision of this section 10 shall be deemed or construed as imposing limitation liability to the extent such damages are result directly and reasonably foreseeable manners or manner from the first party's performance. Maybe there's a theoretical disconnect there. That's the way I see that section operating. Q. That clause provided that neither the foregoing nor any other provision of Section 10 shall be deemed or construed as imposing any limitation of liability. Doesn't that mean that no matter what's said, the first two sentences, that they don't apply to the instance where your end user sustains damages as a result of the BellSouth action that's directly and reasonably foreseeable from BellSouth's performance under the contract? Q. Do you think whatever you put	into this contract will determine what rights
end users ultimately have against Bells	South?

A. I don't know.

Q. Let me give you a hypothetical. NuVox end user sustains some type of damage as a result of BellSouth not provisioning a loop on time. All right. Under your tariff, what is your maximum exposure for that?

A. Without any amendments to contracts, hypothetical would be the credit for the number of days without service.

Q. Under your provision, your language in 10.4.4, would that end user have any other recourse against NuVox?

A. If NuVox was blameless in the transaction, no. If NuVox delayed in getting the order to BellSouth or order confirmation from BellSouth for provisioning on its behalf, it would have exposure.

Q. And in that hypothetical, what would NuVox's remedies be against BellSouth?

A. Depends on what the indemnification provisions of the agreement are, but I would like to think that we would be able to dollar

Q. We can fight about that later. And then you're trying to create a right for your end user -- or an avenue for your end user to sue BellSouth for the actual damages, would BellSouth be subject to triple dipping for the same act?

A. No. That would be a situation where the customer would already have received a credit, be precluded from bringing suit.

Q. Give me an example where you think this provision would actually play out.

A. Oh, I don't know. Example would be BellSouth provided a business listing in the yellow page. Error on BellSouth. Negligence standard. Customer claims lost business revenues related on failure to get in the phone book. Can prove those damages based on lost business receipts for a year it was in the phone book as opposed to the year it was not in the phone book. Makes a claim against NuVox. Clearly in that regard, BellSouth would have been acting as NuVox's agent to put that information in the phone book. NuVox had provided -- can show through its records that it has provided BellSouth with completely accurate for dollar get a credit on our next month's bill for our exposure.

Q. In that situation, you believe your end user should be given a right in this contract to sue BellSouth directly for its actual damages incurred as a result of not provisioning that loop?

A. I don't know if given a direct right is the way to put it. Have an avenue for -- to have that issue addressed.

Q. Why do you think you need to that with this contract between BellSouth and NuVox?

A. This, in my mind, is an outgrowth of BellSouth's request that NuVox quarantee that it can -- it will provide protections for BellSouth against any end user's claims, and in the event that an end user brings a claim that NuVox and Joint Petitioners indemnified BellSouth from any claim no matter how frivolous it is. I don't know how to address your question in a vacuum.

Q. Well, in situation where you give the credit to the end user, we give the credit back to you, presumably we pay penalties for failure to deliver the loop?

A. Presumably.

information. And through fat fingers or just failure to get it in, it doesn't get in. My argument would be that customer should have a cause of action against BellSouth.

Q. And do you think by including the language that you're proposing in 10.4.4 you are quaranteeing or doing anything?

A I'm not quaranteeing anything. I'm making a counterproposal to BellSouth's position. I'm not guaranteeing anything.

Q. For the benefit of your end user? A. I'm not quaranteeing anything for the customer.

O. You are providing them -- you're seeking to preserve certain claims that they may have against BellSouth, correct?

A. The hypothetical you just asked me to provide, for the benefit of the court reporter, the customer would be allowed -- they can bring an action against BellSouth anyway. They wouldn't be precluded under my contract by something I did and then turn around and sue me for it.

Q. I don't understand that last part. How would your customer be precluded from suing

19 20 21	each other harmless in the event that one

Page 123 1 Q. Can you please describe it? 2 A Imagine a situation where NuVox was provisioning service to a customer on a customer premise, NuVox technicians commits or do something or failed to do something they should have done, causes a customer damages. The customer may file a lawsuit against NuVox and BellSouth related to the relationship with the interconnection agreement. 11 In that scenario, I don't believe that BellSouth would have any exposure. 13 And if the judgment was entered against	language is language that currently exists in your contracts? A That's immaterial. We're negotiating a new contract. Q. If it's in your contract, wouldn't you agree that today that you've apparently previously agreed to this language? A. If it's in our contract that was related to different negotiations, different set of circumstances under which NuVox decided not to go into arbitration, those terms were essentially contracted adhesions that we entered into in the year 2000. It's a
BellSouth, I believe that NuVox, if its technicians were solely at fault, that would be a situation that where indemnification might be appropriate. Q. If an end user sues NuVox, is it your intention for BellSouth to indemnify you? A. If BellSouth is solely at fault, yes. Q. If A. Say, for example, that BellSouth is on notice that certain facilities are compromised and fails to take action to fix those facilities and the customer's	different time, and we are in arbitration because we disagree with this language. Q. You're characterizing your execution of the contract of 2000 then as a contract of adhesion? A. Yes. Q. So you were forced to sign that contract? A. Not necessarily forced to sign it, but there were certain terms and conditions that we could not have changed and BellSouth was unwilling to change. If BellSouth's unwilling to change contract
1 cause of action alleges those facts and 2 those are proven. And, through no fault 3 of NuVox, the compromised facilities were 4 the cause of the damages to the customer 5 and a judgment is entered against NuVox, 6 in that instance, in my mind, BellSouth 7 should indemnify NuVox. 8 Q Do you indemnify your end users for claims 9 brought by third parties against your end 10 users? 11 A. I don't believe so. 12 Q. Would it be fair to say that you're asking 13 BellSouth to do something to indemnify 14 you for causes of action and claims that 15 you're not willing to do for your own end 16 users? 17 A. No. It would be fair to say that the 18 version of the indemnification 19 language proposed by BellSouth is so 20 draconian in that it provides that NuVox 21 basically acts as an insurance company for 22 BellSouth in the event of BellSouth's 23 negligence, that we've proposed some 24 alternative language. 25 Q. Do you know if this so-called draconian	terms and it is in a take it or leave it form, in my mind, that is a contract of adhesion. Q Don't you have the right under the Act to negotiate issues that the parties dispute? A We can argue about what your interpretation is or mine. I've told you what I think. Q. Well, I'm asking you, under your interpretation of 251 and 252, doesn't NuVox have a right to petition a commission to resolve disputes relating to issues involved in the negotiation of a 252 agreement? A. Obviously we do. That's what we're doing now. Q. Did you participate in those prior negotiations with BellSouth? A. Yes. Q. Did you approve the prior language? A. I didn't approve the prior language. Q. You didn't ask to change it. A. We did ask to change it. Q. Why didn't you petition the commission if there was a dispute?

יכווסט	Jun
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8	A. I've already been through this. At that time, in the year 2000, arbitration was not an option. Q. Do I remember correctly that NuVox actually filed for petition of arbitration and on the eve of the first hearing you withdraw it or entered a settlement? A. That's correct. Q. Do you know if this issue,	127	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8	 A would indemnify the party that paid for the services. Q. Do you consider NuVox to be a service provider as it relates to your end users? A. We provide services to customers. Q. Do you consider NuVox to be a service provider? A. To certain customers, yes. Q. Isn't the concept of indemnification 	Page 129
10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	indemnification, was one of the issues that was teed up in the arbitration proceeding? A. It may have been. I can't recall. Q. Why is NuVox only willing to indemnify BellSouth or the provider of services for libel, slander, or invasion of privacy arising from the content of the receiving		10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	to relates to claims brought by third parties to one or both parties of a contract? A. That's one of the reasons that you have indemnification provisions, yes. Q. What's another? A Another is simply what I said previously, an allocation of risk issue taken into
18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	party's own communications and not in the instances further described in your provision? A. In the instances further described, if BellSouth's negligence in the provision of the services or causes BellSouth to breach or violate some applicable law, BellSouth should be responsible for the		18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	account given other terms and conditions of a contract. Q. Well, I mean, if the parties have a disagreement between themselves, would indemnification rights ever be triggered? A. Indemnification rights could be triggered if the parties have a disagreement between themselves about which party is
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	damages related thereto. Q What is your understanding of an indemnification provision? What is the purpose of it? A There are many purposes. Can you tell me what you're looking for? Q. Well, I'd like to know everything that you know. A About? Q. The purpose of an indemnification provision. A It can be an agreement between the parties that allocates risk and provides some insulation to either or both of the parties in the event of certain circumstances. Q. Like what? A In the event that a service provider fails	2 128	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	responsible for exposure to a third party. Q. And in that instance, a third party is involved; correct? A. That's correct. Q. So wouldn't you agree with me that indemnification rights generally are triggered when a third party sues one party to a contract; is that correct? A. Generally, yes. Q. Can you think of any other instance where indemnification rights would be triggered when a third party is not involved? A. Not right now, no. Q. Would it be fair to say that this provision is designed to address situations where third parties sue or claim damages against either BellSouth or NuVox?	Page 130
19 20 21 22 23 24 25	to provide the services for which they are paid consideration and liability and the party paying for the services, which has lived up to its obligation under the agreement is subject to some liability, the service provider oftentimes Q. Do you consider		19 20 21 22 23 24 25	A. That's correct. Q. And as it states in your provision, you're only willing to indemnify BellSouth for claims of libel, slander, or invasion of privacy arising from the content of the receiving party's own communications; is that right?

Page 131 1 A. Yes, and NuVox is unwilling to ensure that 2 BellSouth is completely insulated from 3 exposure related to its own negligence. 4 Q. So if it's 99 percent BellSouth's 5 negligence, 1 percent NuVox's negligence, 6 would NuVox be willing to indemnify 7 BellSouth in that instance? 8 A. Repeat that. 9 Q. If the allocation of fault was 99 percent 10 BellSouth, 1 percent NuVox, would NuVox 11 indemnify BellSouth in that instance? 12 A. Under this Under the indemnification 13 language proposed by BellSouth, the way I 14 interpret it is that in the event that 15 a that a lawsuit was brought against 16 BellSouth and NuVox, even if there was a 17 99 percent finding of fault against 18 BellSouth, BellSouth would have a claim 19 that because it provided the services 20 under this agreement, then NuVox would be 21 responsible for those damages.	to expand the sentence reading or starting the party receiving services hereunder, its ability to its parent company to also apply to the party providing the services? A. Well, I mean, that's our position as of today. That's our most recent proposal, that we were at loggerheads over this issue. So that's our proposal as of today. We have not received any counterproposal from BellSouth that's different from BellSouth's version. So for purposes of this discussion, that's our best offer. Would you agree with me that your language is more expansive than BellSouth's language regarding the types of claims that are indemnifiable? A. I mean, I think there's a distinction without a real difference. Well, wouldn't you agree with me that
22 Q. Wouldn't Bell And you changed my	22 BellSouth's language limits
23 question, because I was actually referring	23 indemnification to any claim, loss, or 24 damage claimed by the end user of the
24 to your language, but I'll go ahead with 25 BellSouth's language.	25 party receiving services?
Isn't BellSouth's language, at least in subsection 2, limited to claims by your end user? A. The language states any claim, loss, or damage claimed by the end user of the party. So it could be an end user of the party receiving services. So in if BellSouth were providing the service and NuVox were receiving the service, yes. Q. And that's it? A. That's it. Q Why is NuVox not willing to make a proposal that would indemnify BellSouth or the party providing services against any claim, loss, or damage that arises from the receiving party's failure to abide by applicable law or injuries or damages arising out of or in connection with this agreement, to the extent caused by the receiving party's negligence, gross negligence, or willful misconduct?	Page 134 1 A That's what the language says. 2 Q. And isn't the Joint Petitioners' language 3 more expansive in that it doesn't limit 4 indemnification rights to claims by the 5 end user; any claim, loss, or damage? 6 A That's right. 7 Q So under your proposal, there are more 8 instances where BellSouth would be 9 obligated or the party providing 10 service would be obligated to indemnify 11 NuVox than in BellSouth's proposal, which 12 is limited to instances where your end 13 user sues BellSouth, would that be a fair 14 statement? 15 A. There's that possibility, yes. 16 Q. Now, in your language, you are willing to 17 indemnify the party providing services for 18 libel, slander, invasion of privacy 19 arising from the content of the receiving 20 party's own communications; is that right? 21 A. That's right.
22 A. I can't say that we've ever been presented 23 with a mutual indemnification provision	22 Q. What does that mean? 23 A. That means that in the event NuVox allowed
24 that we believe is equitable. 25 Q. But as it stands today, you're not willing	the use of its service so that plaintiff alleged libel, slander, or invasion of

It's my Georgia law governs these agreements. Georgia law provides crystal clear, unless you expressly exclude	Page 143	1 2 3 4 5 6 7	 Q. But it's your opinion that if the law is in existence at the time of execution, that law is incorporated into the agreement unless it is expressly excluded, is that right? A. We've agreed that Georgia law applies to this this contract. Georgia law, as I 	Page 145

I would agree that it could be argued today that the negligence cause of action might trigger the indemnification provision. I don't know it necessarily guts limitations of liability. Q. Would you agree with me that, under the language as it appears today, that BellSouth could be libel for more damages in excess of the limitation of liability cap for a negligence action? A. If directly or proximately caused by BellSouth's action, that's a possibility. Q. Is that your intention? A. When you say "your intention", do you mean the Joint Petitioners? Q. NuVox. If you can speak on behalf of Joint Petitioners A. NuVox isn't interested in a business that	50

If we're provided with a meaningful proposal that provides for a more equitable indemnification provision, that's something that the Joint Petitioners will definitely consider. Q. Why did you include negligence? A. That's a theory under which there might be liability exposure, and we included it, again, after discussion among the Joint Petitioners. Why specifically it was included as opposed to being excluded, I can't recall. Q. Would you agree that the limitation of liability language that either party has proposed applies to claims of negligence? A. I believe so, yes. Q. With this indemnification provision and by including negligence as a cause to have BellSouth indemnify you, could there be a situation where NuVox could obtain damages in excess of even its limitation of liability cap under this provision? Q Are these complaints at a commission or in a court of law? A. They have been both at a commission and at and in court. When I speak commission, I'm not necessarily talking about formal complaints. I'm talking about consumer complaint issues to a Consumer Affairs Department. Q. Okay. Are you aware of any instance where a NuVox consumer has sued BellSouth in a court of law? A. I can't recall Q. Has NuVox ever been sued by an end by 	Page 152	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	 A. It did settle for more than the credits, yes. Q. Do you know how much more? A. I can't recall. Q. Did the end user sue BellSouth? A. I don't believe so. Q. Did NuVox third party BellSouth? A. We had prepared a third-party cross-claim? Q. Well, what do you mean "cross-claim"? A However however The issue settled prior to. Q. So the answer would be, no, you did not file a third party A. The issue settled, frankly, because the firm that represented the plaintiff also represented BellSouth and didn't want to get BellSouth into trouble. He was in a pickle, let's put it that way. Q. Do you know what state this A. South Carolina. Q. South Carolina. Okay. 	Page 154

The third-party loop information fiction is used by BellSouth to aid its mischievous attempt to impose upon Joint Petitioners and other CLPs an LOA requirement outside the shared use context. Do you see that? A. Yes. Q. Did you write that sentence? A. That's my testimony. Q. Do you agree with it? A. I agree with it in the sense that it appears BellSouth's requirement that a CLEC provide an LOA or obtain an LOA from another CLEC prior to viewing certain LMU information seems to be an obstacle in the way of CLECs winning customers. So any customer that currently is receiving a DSL product from NuVox is a grandfathered customer? A. In a sense, yes Q. Okay. Let's talk about EEL audits. A. Okay. Q. Is it fair to characterize the Joint Petitioners' position regarding the notice required in the EEL audit is that they believe it should include identification of the circuits that form the cause for the audit? A. I believe that the notice should identify the circuits that BellSouth has a concern about If that becomes cause for the audit, yes, identify those specific circuits Q. So you believe that BellSouth providing a notice and by identifying certain circuits would not constitute cause? A If BellSouth provided notice and identified certain circuits and also	Page 191	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	too that raised a bona fide concern, the audit would be related to those specific circuits, yes Q. So you would take the position that BellSouth could not identify any other circuits other than those that are identified in the notice? A. That's Yes. Q. Does the FCC require that a notice identify all circuits that form the basis of the cause? A. The FCC requires limited or allows limited audits that are related to a concern over the use of those circuits. I don't know if it's the FCC specifically requires a notice to identify certain circuits. Q. Let me give you a hypothetical. BellSouth provides notice of its belief that a hundred or more circuits are improperly being priced as EELs and provides you with identification of those circuits. Unbeknownst to BellSouth, there are additional circuits that also should not be priced as EELs. And it was not until	Page 193

If BellSouth sent me a notice tomorrow indicating that it wanted to audit 100 circuits that NuVox had converted from special access circuits to EELs, without any additional information, I don't believe that that would pass muster I don't believe that that would be cause It has to be some factor related to the use of those circuits that, in BellSouth's through BellSouth's traffic studies or its provision of services to certain customers, indicates that NuVox NuVox's original certification related to that conversion was inaccurate. Q. If BellSouth identifies a hundred circuits that it believes are improperly priced at EELs, is it the Joint Petitioners' position that the audit can only encompass those 100 circuits? A. If BellSouth also provided documentation	Page 192	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25	another look at additional circuits, NuVox would not object to expanding that audit. Q. To what degree? A. That's tough to say. I mean, let's say, for example, that the audit of a hundred circuits came back and three of those circuits were used solely for data as opposed to any local voice traffic. I	Page 194

	 A. I think they've got it backwards. Q. Got it backwards? A. Yes I think it's month-and-a-half for existing CLEC customers and two months for new CLEC customers that don't have any past history. That's right. Q. How did you come up with that proposal? A. Well, we came up with that proposal because, over the past eight years or seven years, about at least once a year, and it seems like every six months, we talk with BellSouth about deposit issues. And after having a seven-year history with BellSouth and paying bills on a monthly basis, it seems that NuVox has a good business history with BellSouth and should not be required to have the same deposit criteria, I guess, as a new CLEC that has no operating history, no past payment history with BellSouth, just a distinction between two different CLEC businesses, a new business and one that's established.
